Overview

About Alexander

Alexander Berg, Ph.D., is a technology specialist and patent agent in the New York office of Fish & Richardson P.C. His practice focuses on patent prosecution and counseling in the fields of electrical devices and materials, including semiconductor systems and fabrication, optics, characterization methods, and computing. Prior to joining the firm, Dr. Berg worked on the development of novel oxide materials and fabrication methods for application in next-generation solar cells.

Dr. Berg earned his Ph.D. in electrical engineering and materials science from Princeton University and his B.Sc. in engineering-physics from Brown University. Besides his scientific research at Princeton, he also earned a certificate in science, technology, and environmental policy (STEP) from the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs for a research project that analyzed, among other things, trends in patent citation rates of multi-sector-patenting inventors.
