Overview

About Ashley

Ashley Allman Bolt is an associate in the litigation group in the Atlanta office of Fish & Richardson P.C. Ashley's practice focuses on patent litigation in various U.S. district courts and the U.S. International Trade Commission. Ashley has experience in nearly all phases of litigation, including drafting discovery requests and responses, preparing claim constructions and accompanying briefing, drafting invalidity and infringement contentions, managing document collection and production, drafting motions for summary judgment, preparing experts for deposition, and performing various other litigation-related tasks.

Ashley most recently joined the firm after serving as a judicial law clerk to the Honorable Kimberly A. Moore of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit from 2019 to 2020. Ashley was previously an associate and a summer associate of the firm. During law school, she served as a legal extern at Georgia Lawyers for the Arts, a non-profit organization dedicated to providing legal assistance and educational programming to artists and arts organizations in Georgia. Ashley also participated in the TI:GER program, a multidisciplinary program focusing on the legal and business issues that arise during technology commercialization.
