Overview

Erin Alper is an intellectual property lawyer handling patent litigation, inter partes reviews, and U.S. International Trade Commission cases.

Erin is experienced in an array of technologies and has argued cases in venues across the nation.

A talented litigator, Erin stands out as a pro bono superstar committed to ensuring access to justice for all. Her pro bono work has included a habeas corpus case referred by the Georgia Innocence Project, representing domestic violence victims, helping a veteran's widow recover spousal death benefits, and representing a low-income artist in a dispute with a local retailer.

Before she joined the firm, Erin worked as a member of the technology legal group in the law department of McKesson Corp., a distributor of pharmaceuticals and provider of health information technology, medical supplies, and care management tools.
