Overview

About Jared

Jared Hartzman is an Associate in Fish & Richardson's Washington, D.C., office and is also a registered Patent Attorney by the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO). He represents both plaintiffs and defendants in complex patent litigation in federal district courts and before the International Trade Commission across a broad range of technical areas. He has represented and provided strategic counseling to clients in the consumer electronics, telecommunications, and automotive industries.

Jared has broad patent litigation experience, including fact and expert discovery, claim construction, motions practice, bench and jury trials, post-trial motions, and appeals. Jared has also handled fact and expert witness preparation (during discovery and trial), defended expert witnesses in deposition, and argued motions in limine in district court. Separately, Jared has experience drafting petitions for inter partes review (IPR) before the USPTO.

In addition to his patent litigation practice, Jared dedicates time to pro bono matters, including asylum, immigration, and LGBTQ cases for Immigration Equality, Capital Area Immigrants' Rights (CAIR), and the LGBT Bar Association.

During law school, Jared worked as a patent agent at a boutique firm in the Washington D.C. area and as a summer associate at Fish. Jared earned a J.D. from The George Washington University Law School in 2015. During law school, he was an Editor of the American Intellectual Property Law Association Quarterly Journal and served as an officer for the University's Student Intellectual Property Law Association. Jared earned dual bachelor's degrees in both Chemistry and Science and Technology Studies from Cornell University in 2012.
