About Joon

Joon Chung is an associate in the Atlanta office of Fish & Richardson P.C. He was previously a summer associate with the firm.

Joon's practice focuses on patent litigation in U.S. district courts. He has litigated before a variety of U.S. district courts and has experience with all stages of litigation, including due diligence, drafting pleadings, invalidity and infringement contentions, infringement analysis, validity analysis, motions, fact discovery, expert discovery and reports, claim construction, depositions, pre-trial motions and preparation, and trial.

In addition to litigation, Joon's practice includes analyzing patent portfolios to assess infringement risk. He also has experience with trade secret matters.

Joon has a background in electrical engineering and his cases have spanned a range of technologies, including cellular phone functionality, components and software, medical devices, graphical processors, wireless network architectures, manufacturing devices, and flooring products.
