Overview

Joseph Sinopoli represents clients in intellectual property litigation matters touching on a wide variety of technologies.

Joseph's legal experience ranges from drafting legal research memos and discovery motions to assisting with various stages of patent litigation.

Drawing on his background in physics and mathematics to form a keen grasp of his clients' technologies, Joseph has laboratory experience working as a student research assistant to manufacture and test high-power, custom-built solar panels using a novel process.

When he's not litigating, Joseph can be found outdoors enjoying fishing, hiking, or snowboarding.
